

Emmanouil Angelakis MD, PhD

Clinical Microbiologist

Head of the Diagnostic Department and of Public Health Laboratories (Influenza, Polio, Measles / Rubella), Hellenic Pasteur Institute

Positions

Research Director, Hellenic Pasteur Institute, Athens, Greece

Hospital Practitioner, University Hospital Center La Timone, Marseille, France

Associate Professor in Clinical Microbiology, University Aix – Marseille, Marseille, France

Education – Professional experience

- Medical Doctor, University of Medicine, Heraklion, Crete, (2005)
- Specialization in Clinical Microbiology, (2012)
- Hospital Practitioner, University Hospital Center La Timone, Marseille, France, (2012-2018)
- Associate Professor in Clinical Microbiology, University Aix – Marseille, Marseille, France, (2016-18)
- Major Researcher, Hellenic Pasteur Institute, Athens, Greece, (2018 – 2020)
- Head of the Hellenic Pasteur Institute Diagnostic Department and of Public Health Laboratories, Athens, Greece, (2021 – today)

PhD titles

- Phd University of Medicine, Heraklion, Crete, (2009).
Title “Detection of sensitivity and resistance mechanisms of Bartonella species in fluoroquinolones”.
- Phd University of Medicine, Aix-Marseille, (2011)
Title “Evaluation of the effects of Lactobacillus species on the weight, gut microbiome and metabolism”.

Research activities

- 125 indexed publications, 53 publications as first author, 12 publications as last author, 32 publications as corresponding author
- Two patents

Valorisation (January 2023)

- h-index: 38
- Sum of citations: >4.800
- Guest Editor and Associate Editor International Congresses: invited speaker, posters